Casa del Obispo has a wonderful colonial history. Built on late 18th century ruins, it was the main part of a large Hacienda. The property was reconceived by renowned architect, Norman Lacayo, and its size, location and architectural pedigree make this an exceptionally attractive San Miguel home. From the street, (a 2-minute walk to the Jardin), one enters through the original carriage entrance which could accommodate a small car. Large iron gates open into a truly spectacular central courtyard of Bamboo, Palms, Plumeria, a mature Jacaranda tree and a fountain. The courtyard is anchored around the original 18th century staircase, walls and colonial door
