There is a community in San Miguel de Allende, where Mexican materials and minimalist modern architecture have been combined in their homes, duplex and in their common areas, unmatched and in harmony. The quarry, the chukum originally from Yucatan, soft woods such as Encino, and cobble, making these spaces, making these spaces, making these spaces a magical place. The house has a great sense of freedom in natural lighting and in its windows that can be integrated with the inner terrace. The house is warm and kind, with great quality in the finishes and sizes of the ideal spaces to inhabit it or to have a income business. The complex is
