Inspired around a magnificent mature pepper tree that serves as the heart of the home, this one-of-a-kind architectural residence offers a rare blend of artistry, nature, and walkable Centro living.Designed to celebrate its extraordinary setting, the home embraces natural light, soaring volumes, and a seamless connection between indoors and out. Walls of steel-framed glass frame views of the pepper tree from throughout the residence, creating an ever-changing focal point and a profound connection to nature. Rich wood ceilings, handcrafted details, herringbone brick floors, and refined mid-century influences combine to create a home that is both dramatic and deeply inviting.Unlike conventional homes, this residence was thoughtfully designed around the natural landscape. Ancient boulders have been incorporated into the architecture itself, becoming sculptural elements within the home and a constant reminder of the site's unique character. The result is a living environment where architecture and...
