A brick bóveda ceiling gives the living and dining area its character, while an all-on-one-level layout makes everyday life straightforward. This one-bedroom, two-bath Laurel-model home at Quinta de Allende brings familiar San Miguel details to a manageable footprint.The kitchen features granite countertops and a breakfast bar, keeping it connected to the living space. An interior patio provides a place to step outside, while finished closets, a separate laundry area, and parking for one car cover the practical essentials. Solar panels, screened aluminum windows, and tempered-glass shower doors round out the features.Within the gated community, residents share a heated pool, gym, clubhouse, and landscaped green spaces. There's room to swim, spend time outdoors, and enjoy a garden setting without taking on a large property of your own.For someone looking for a smaller home with single-level convenience and access to shared amenities, this is one worth considering.Unfurnished.
